Of the Town of Brentwood for the school year of 1920.

Total number of absentees investigated and caused to attend school during the year.....	18

Parents and those having the custody of children of school age comply willingly with the law when it is explained to them.

In a few instances where it causes inconveniences and hardship they make an extra effort to send their children to school regularly.

Truant Officer.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

To the School Board and Citizens of the School District of Brentwood:

It is with pleasure that I submit to you my first formal report as superintendent of the Brentwood schools. It covers not only the school year beginning September 1, 1919, and ending August 31, 1920, but the completed two terms of the present school year.

The work of nearly all the teachers during this period of a year and a half has been of uniformly good quality—some of it has been excellent. Wherever failure has come, and we have had failures as well as successes, it has been due to lack of experience. To inspire in each of her pupils a desire to improve mentally, morally and physically, has been the intention of each Brentwood teacher, and all of the present staff can justly claim to have succeeded largely in this matter. Miss Swain's failing health and her resignation as teacher in the North Road School are matters of regret. She was very faithful to duty and conscientious in the performance of her work even after warnings of ill health. Her work has been ably undertaken by Miss Marietta McLaughlin of Dover.

In so far as it has been possible to do so, the state program of studies for elementary schools has been followed. The deviations from this program have not been in the essential studies of an elementary school, viz.: reading, writing and arithmetic, but in such non-essentials as are usually not attempted by rural schools. Thorough work and much drill in these essentials has been the usual thing in our schools, while as much as possible of singing, preparation of programs for special days, and the like, has been done.

The work accomplished by all our schools would be much greater if we could secure far more nearly perfect attendance—if we could insure that the first consideration for every child in town, on every school day, should be school rather than a trip to a neighboring town, work to do at home, personal comfort, etc. Legitimate absences from school for reasons of sickness or actual inability to attend are few and, of course, expected. Unwarranted absences are too numerous, and ought not to be condoned. I am glad to report that so far during the present school year, the record of 87 for the per cent of attendance, established at the South Road School during the last school year, has greatly improved. Tables of general statistics giving some facts about our schools and teachers, which ought to be known by all citizens, are appended hereto.

Expenditures for text-books during the last year and a half have been large. It should be remembered, however, that the outlay for this necessity had been very small for two or more years previous to September 1, 1919. Consequently, purchases had to be more numerous in recent months. Both texts and supplies have risen greatly in cost within the past two years. Acting both on their own initiative and on directions of the superintendent, the teachers have exercised proper care of materials placed in their hands.

Early in the year 1919-1920, and in the present year the school physician made his inspection of every pupil in the district with results as set forth in the appended tables. Notices of all defects with advice to consult the family physician were sent to the parents concerned, though in many cases our attempt at physical betterment of school children ended there. While the case was found and reported, the defect was not corrected. The much-to-be desired follow-up work of a school nurse cannot now be afforded except as her services might be shared with other districts in the union; even then the cost probably would be prohibitive. Under the circumstances, parental care to see that the defect is remedied is particularly necessary, and I urge it upon every father and mother concerned.

Even competent teachers fail at times in their efforts because they misunderstand some pupil or other who perhaps is understood by nobody except his parents. May I suggest that these failures could largely be averted if all parents having pupils in our schools would visit the schools and acquaint themselves with the teachers. It is undesirable that parents and teachers, both earnest in accomplishing the same great end should not know each other and work together.

Since a year and a half ago, the roofs of at least two school houses have begun to leak badly. As a result, plaster is being damaged to a considerable extent in two or three places. As noted in the survey of buildings submitted to you last year, the amount and direction of light at the Crawley's Falls school house are not good. If the school is to continue to be large, another window should be added. At the same house, a new inside door is badly needed. The general state of repairs in all the houses except that in the South Road is good. I recommend a careful survey of the situation there to see what might be done economically in the way of repairs. Several loads of gravel put on the ground in front of the door would do away with the very troublesome clayey mud which is so abundant there, and which is unavoidably spread over the floors inside the building. Money has already been appropriated to make fly proof the vaults of all out-houses and prevent them from becoming sources of disease. Much of our school year is in warm weather when the many flies, which are always found in and about a school house, transfer the germ-laden filth of the vaults to the faces and hands of our children and to their food. The appropriation should be put into actual operation before the next warm weather sets in.

I desire to express my thanks for the co-operation so freely given by the School Board, other town officers, and all interested citizens.

Respectfully submitted,

CLIFTON A. TOWLE,

Superintendent of Supervisory Union, No. 16.
